Adrian's positive energy along with open and honest communication invigorates strong relationships both inside and outside of work. When he's not managing projects, Adrian loves spending time with family and friends.

The prospect of delving into complex projects and guiding them successfully to completion is what fuels Adrian's drive for challenge, achievement and ultimately, the best possible outcomes for clients.

As an experienced project manager within the educational sector, Adrian's natural leadership style, tenacity and meticulous attention to detail sees the team through even the most challenging work. In fact, it's something he relishes.

"What gets me up in the morning is the thrill of a new challenge - I thrive on pushing myself and my team to do the best we can," he says.

Adrian takes a three-prong approach to project management: exceptional communication, great customer service and a strong work ethic.

The ultimate satisfaction for Adrian lies in client contentment and happiness; knowing that he has contributed to delivering a service or project that brings joy and long term value to the end-user.

"My most rewarding experience is seeing the direct impact our projects have on students and end-users, whether that be the pure excitement of students playing on a newly developed playground or improvements in academic performance through tailored built environments."

Relationships also play a pivotal role in Adrian's day-to-day work and he takes immense pride in building trust with the clients he works with. "It's always a good feeling to know that I have delivered a project that has met or exceeded their expectations," he says. Such recognition affirms Adrian's commitment to delivering exceptional results.
